Satellites are changing the night sky as we know it

人造卫星正改变着我们所熟知的夜空

Expect the night sky to start changing fast. One day soon, the stars we can see from Earth could be outnumbered by a vast swarm of satellites.

等着看吧，这片夜空将快速发生变化。在不久的将来，大批的人造卫星在数量上可能会超过我们在地球上看到的星星。

Some professional astronomers raised alarms last spring, and again in November, after SpaceX launched batches of 60 Starlink satellites. These don't present a big problem yet, but when thousands more shine down on us, they could interfere with our ability to detect the farthest, faintest objects in the universe – the ones that give us a portal into the distant past.

早在去年春天，就有一些专业天文学家对此发出警告；今年十一月，在 SpaceX 推进“星链”计划，发射了第二批的 60 颗卫星后，这一担忧被再次提出。到目前为止，这些卫星还没有造成什么大问题。不过，当我们再发射数以千计的卫星上去，它们反射的光可能会干扰我们去探测宇宙中最远、（光线）最微弱的天体，而这些天体正是我们探寻遥远过去的一个窗口。

astronomer/ə'strɒn.ə.mə/: n. 天文学家

词根词缀：astro-（与星星或者天体有关的）

SpaceX has plans to launch 30,000 more satellites, in addition to the 12,000 already approved by the FCC and FAA. Jonathan MacDowell, space historian and astrophysicist of the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, predicts that other companies are likely to launch “mega constellations” of their own satellites. The result could be cheap or free high speed Internet access for everyone on the planet, at the price of our view of timeless constellations.

SpaceX 已有 1.2 万颗由联邦通信委员会（FCC）及美国联邦航空管理局（FAA）批准的可发射卫星，除此之外，SpaceX 还计划再发射 3 万颗卫星。乔纳森·麦克道威尔是哈佛-史密松森天体物理中心的一位天文史学家、天体物理学家，他预测其他公司可能也会发射自己的卫星，组成所谓的“巨型人造星座”。尽管这样能为地球上的每个人提供便宜、甚至免费的高速网络，可代价却是我们要失去那亘古不变的星座夜景了。

in addition to：此外；除了

space historian：天文史学家

astrophysicist/'æ.s.troʊ'fɪz.I.sɪst/: n. 天体物理学家

词根词缀：astro-（与星星或者天体有关的）

Is it selfish to want to keep our night sky, knowing some people still don't have Internet access? Maybe. But many of the disconnected surely feel a connection to the night sky, too.

明明知道现在仍然有一些人上不了网，可我还是想留住我们熟悉的那片夜空，这种想法是不是很自私？也许是吧。但是有很多还不能上网的人，肯定也感受到了他们与这片夜空是相连的。

the disconnected：还不能上网的人

MacDowell says one good compromise solution would be an international agreement, similar to a space junk pact negotiated through the Interagency Space Debris Coordination Committee. Through that agreement, companies with plans to launch satellites now design them so they fall to Earth after 25 years. A similar agreement might encourage people to design satellites with minimal impact on our view.

麦克道威尔说，一个权宜之计将是制定一份与“太空垃圾协议”相似的国际协议，“太空垃圾协议”由机构间空间碎片协调委员会协商制定，在它的约束下，凡是有卫星发射计划的公司，现在都需要将卫星设计成会在 25 年后返回地球。那么，一份类似的协议可能会激励人们优化卫星设计，使其对我们的视觉影响最小。

While the satellites themselves can help connect people to one another, the stars can also help us feel a connection – to others around the world and to people throughout history who have gazed upwards and been inspired.
